BIG CRICKET SCORE.

HENDREN MAKES 277.

LONDON, August 25.

Playing at Lord's against Kent, Middlesex won on the first innings. Hendren scored 277 unfinished, the highest score of his career and the highest of the season, beating Hardinge's 249 for Kent against Leicestershire. The record score for the Lord's ground was the 278 scored by William Ward when playing for the Marylebone Club against Norfolk in 1820.

Gloucestershire beat Warwickshire by an innings and 163 runs, Dipper (Gloucester) scoring 125 unfinished. Warwickshire made 80 in their first innings. Parker taking 8 wickets for 29; in their second effort they scored 73, Parker taking 6 for 32.

Yorkshire won by ten wickets from Hampshire, Rhodes making 106. Hampshire only made 44 in their second innings, Waddington taking 4 for 24 and Kildor 6 for 13.

Lancashire drew with Essex at Manchester, Makepeace scoring 150.

Sussex won by eight wickets from Northamptonshire for whom Bagnall made 103. In their first innings Northamptonshire made 93, Tate taking 5 for 19 and A. H. Gilligan 4 for 13.

AUSTRIA'S DESPERATE FLIGHT.

CAUSES DIPLOMATIC STRUGGLE.

LONDON, August 26.

A tense diplomatic struggle among Slav, Germans and Italians has begun in consequence of the almost desperate situation of Austria. Doctor Seipel, the Austrian Chancellor, visited Prague and Berlin to seek help to prevent the collapse of Austria and is now conferring with Signor Schanzer the Italian Foreign Minister, at Verona in regard to which France is very closely watching developments. The French are opposed to the union of Austria with Germany or Italy but it is reported that they would favour the union of Austria with the Slav states composing the little entente but this is impossible owing to the attitude of Italy which threatens to intervene if Austria falls into revolution or attempts to unite with Germany or the little entente. It is stated that Signor Schanzer made this threat to the London conference when Mr. Lloyd George told him it might mean war.

THE AMERICAN DISCLAIMER.

BRITISH OFFICIAL EXPLANATION.

LONDON, August 25.

An authoritative announcement is made replying to Mr. Mellon's Washington statement. It admits that practically all the money borrowed from America was applied towards meeting British expenditure in the United States. Nevertheless Britain would not have required assistance from America had Britain not been compelled to make advances to the allies. The statement concludes that early in 1918 Britain pressed the United States to relieve it of responsibility for financing the allies, offering in return to finance all her own expenditure in the United States without borrowing, but America declined the proposal.

MAKING CHINA MILITARISTIC.

BERTRAND RUSSELL ACCUSES EUROPEANS.

LONDON, August 25.

Mr. Bertrand Russell, who was recently in China, addressing the Women's International League for Peace and Liberty, declared that if the Europeans continued their present policy in China she would become a great militaristic country, although she was not that yet, and perhaps all that constituted the beauty of Chinese civilisation would be destroyed for evermore.

CANADIAN IMMIGRATION.

LABOUR VIEW.

TORONTO, August 25.

The Dominion trade and labour congress at Montreal adopted a report expressing the opinion that "entire prohibition of immigration is impracticable and inadvisable for Canada except in the case of Orientals and our efforts should be towards effective supervision and regulation."

PRINTING STRIKE.

REPARATIONS TANGLE.

STILL SOME HOPE.

LONDON, August 25.

Reports from Berlin regarding the situation between the reparations commission and the Cabinet somewhat conflict but anyhow it is indicated to-day that the discussions have not entirely concluded and that although agreement so far has not been reached Germany is preparing now proposals for submission.

GERMAN OFFER REJECTED.

BERLIN, August 25.

In the course of a conference with a trade unions' delegation Herr Wirth stated that the reparations commission rejected an offer to create a reserve fund in foreign currency which would be at the disposal of the entente should Germany default as regards wood and coal deliveries. He added that negotiations in respect of coal mines and forests were proceeding.

AN ARRANGEMENT MADE.

BERLIN, August 25.

It is officially announced that semi-official negotiations between Sir John Bradbury and M. Maucler and the Government concluded with an arrangement which substantially consists of Germany guaranteeing future deliveries of coal and timber by bills on large German industries. The reparations commissioners departed for Paris where they will submit the results of their mission to their colleagues.

ALLIANCE BANK OF SIMLA.

LONDON, August 25.

The report of the Alliance Bank of Simla for the year ended June 30 shows that the directors appropriated a reserve fund of 44 lakhs to meet losses and doubtful debts. A final dividend on ordinary shares for the year was passed, thus the return for the year is confined to an interim distribution of seven per cent. Sir David Yule accepted the chairmanship of the bank whose head office is being transferred from Simla to Calcutta.

RUSSIA STILL STARVES.

GIGANTIC EFFORTS NEEDED.

GENEVA.

In view of the recent contradictory statements in regard to famine in Russia the soviet has issued an official statement that the need is still great. Thousands of children are homeless and must be fed and clothed. The peasants are completely ruined and gigantic efforts are necessary to enable the cultivation of a sufficient area. The situation in the Crimea is worse than last year owing to drought and locusts.

NEW GLIDER ACHIEVEMENTS.

BERLIN, August 25.

The glider competition in the Rhoen mountains terminated with a new record by Hentzen who, after more than three hours flight, landed 350 metres above the starting point. The best performance in motorless flights was by Douchy who sailed nine minutes and covered three quarters of a mile.

PLOT TO KILL POINCARE.

PARIS, August 25.

Le Matin states that the police have received trustworthy information that a German named Guenther belonging to the famous secret organisation called "conseil" is in Paris on a mission to kill M. Poincare. The Police are searching for him.

THE MARK MARKET.

LONDON, August 25.

Marks in the course of wild fluctuations went to over 11,000 but rallied to 7,600 on favourable reparations rumours. Finally they stood at 9,000 for sellers.

THE FLIGHT TO RIO.

WASHINGTON, August 25.

Mr. Roosevelt has placed another seaplane at the disposal of Hinton, the pilot of the Rio seaplane crew, who are returning to Pensacola whence they will resume the flight so that it may be accomplished from continent to continent without change of machine or crew.

WORLD FLYERS IN HOSPITAL.

CALCUTTA, August 25.

The world's flight airmen Macmillan and Malins have arrived at Chittagong and have gone into hospital suffering from exposure.

IRISH CIVIL WAR.

LONDON, August 25.

With the capture of Kinsale and Dunmanway by the nationalists the irregulars no longer hold key ports in Cork.

"TRUTH, JUSTICE, PUBLIC SERVICE"

HONGKONG, SATURDAY, AUG. 26, 1922.

ADVERSARIA.

Our Chinese detectives are not as useful as they might be. Our criminals are ruthless, and perhaps our Chinese detectives are men of discretion. During the strike they failed the authorities entirely, so that the authorities were blamed by impatient people for inactivity that they could not help. But even supposing they were as good as they might be, the honest detective could never detect much because the dishonest criminal would not confide in him. European detectives, even when they know the language, are even more helpless. Their complexion is a handicap. The shape of their eyes is all wrong. In most cases, their bodies are too big. In short, not to let them think I am finding fault with them, they cannot be mistaken for Chinese, and especially for dishonest Chinese. How then is so much local crime detected? The answer may be expressed in one word. Informers. Mr. Shatin of the Police said in a recent case that the police knew more from the informers than they could prove formally in court, as they could not call informers as witnesses. The Telegraph was intelligent enough to see in this a subject for editorial comment, and I compliment my contemporary on that. For I was overlooking it myself, until I read their editorial note. In these days it takes a really smart journalist to know what to talk about. But I think my professional conference was wrong in regarding it as a "sideshow on local terrorism." "Prestinately, he wrote, "the reason [for not calling informers as witnesses] is that they fear reprisals." They probably do fear reprisals. I admit that they have good reason for the fear. But that is not the main reason why they do not appear as witnesses. The police would seldom put them into the box, even if they were willing to go. Once let them appear in court as witnesses, and their usefulness as informers would be at an end, even though they might escape reprisals. Informers are usually ex-criminals. (At least, it is our hope, that they are, consistently ex-.) As such they enjoy the confidence of the lawbreakers, and "get into the know" regarding crime

BY THE WAY, it was one of the official arguments for registering and bullying me that in that way the authorities could keep a check on undesirables. We have had Compulsory Registration for quite a while now, and we still have it, pending the Government's decision to give the China Mail heart disease by yielding to its latest demand. How is the "check" working? Why doesn't it rid us of the tougher bums? Why has it permitted this charity problem to arise? Because my dear friends, Red Tape is satisfied when it gets a Form filled up, and takes no further interest in it. The Registration Bureau (or whatever this anachronistic War party calls itself) presumably collects Forms as a schoolboy collects stamps, without studying them. It is anxious for a complete collection, I happen to know; but what it does with 'em when it gets 'em, beyond pasting them in an album, I do not know. Happy thought! As Punch used to say when it used to be amusing. The Department has the forms, and we have the all-bums. So much for the "useful check" part of it. When I think of our busy armed robbers, and then of our now too large police force, some of it wagging all day at street corners to prevent pedestrians running over our motorists, some of it running in decent people for washing clothes in nulahs, and quite a chunk of it pasting Registration Forms into Al bums, I could almost weep, dear friends. I believe I could, too, if I had half an onion. Ah! If only I could be the Government for just one month, I'd take thirty days holiday, and even show you great improvements. That is really a good tip, if only they would take it. Let them devote the next month to repealing all War, Emergency, and Panic Ordinances, and the following six to a policy of masterly inactivity. The health of the population would go up, as the newspapers say by leaps and bounds. Drunkenness and immorality would diminish, the writing of bad verse would cease, and the people who owe me money would feel so happy they might be moved to pay me something on account. Dreams, idle dreams! In fact it will be very different. Already I hear that our legislators are hatching new laws, including:

Ordnance to Abolish Adversarius
"Declare Ice-cream Eating Unlawful save between the hours of Ho and Hum.

"Prohibit the Keeping of Plant Pots on Urban Verandas,

"Incorporate a Jazz
Faculty in the University and others, as Hughes, Hough and Lammett say, too numerous to mention.

"Has Adversarius
THE GREAT nothing to con-
TELEPHONE tribute to the Great CONTROVERSY Telephone Controvery?" The Boss reports this enquiry from a reader whom he would like to oblige, and a nod is as noisy as a wink to a hireling. My attitude in this controversy is one of surprise that there should be any controversy at all. I am for the absolute abolition of telephones. They encourage chatter-boxes to waste the time of busy people, and they discourage the practice of the fine art of chit writing. I wouldn't use a telephone if the company gave me one for nothing, and I simply cannot understand what all the argument is about.

Will that do, Boss?

No. That's no use at all.

Well, it's all you are going to get out of me, on that subject.

Incorporated in a very noo satisfactory report on the CLUB Book Club for its annual meeting on Tuesday evening next, the Hon. Sec. Mr. Charles Gerten, is kind enough to include a statement that the inception of the Book Club is entirely due to "Adversarius" of the China Mail. I moaned the idea first, and am happy in the thought that to that extent I have been useful; but I am bound to honour, as well as eager to do it, to declare that if there had been no Charles Gerten there would have been no such success as is now reported. He is the Ideal Secretary, a diligent, enthusiastic, and specially intelligent worker.

I see I am expected to apologize to the E.A.S.M.A. for letting out last Saturday that some of their members have sufficient interest in politics to write letters to the China Mail sometimes. Although they paid me the compliment of making me an honorary member (a favour unasked and unexpected), and although I esteem a whole lot of them very highly, I'll set them further first.
Unless the E.A.S.M.A. Club is to be the nucleus of a political organization of earnest and intelligent young men bent on political reform both here and at Home, I see no reason why it should continue to exist. We already have such boozing clubs. It was to a potentially useful political institution that I gave my support. I know that very many of its members are earnest and intelligent politicians. I also know (and said so last Saturday) that it includes reactionaries. I suspect it is to these that I owe the snub in the letter in Wednesday's China Mail. In fact, I know who did it.

I couldn't write with this freedom if I were still a member—it would be improper—so I may as well tell you that I have resigned in order to retain my freedom to be outspoken.

ASSOCIATION HAD TAKEN PART OFFICIALLY

IN THE AGITATION AGAINST THE REGISTRATION BILL, AND NO HONEST READER

COULD HAVE READ THAT INTO MY NOTE. I

SAID THAT MOST OF THE LETTERS

SEEN TO THE CHINA MAIL ON THE SUBJECT

HAD BEEN WRITTEN BY MEMBERS OF THE

E.A.S.M.A., WHICH WAS TRUE (BUT AD-MITTEDLY INACCURATE).

IT IS NOW PRE-TENDED THAT THE CONSTITUTION OF THE

CLUB FORBIDS ITS MEMBERS TO AIR THEIR

POLITICAL VIEWS AS INDIVIDUALS! I THINK

THAT THE COMMITTEE WERE UNWISE TO TAKE

THIS NOTICE OF IT, BUT AS I KNOW WHO HAS

PERSUASSED THEM TO DO SO, AND WHY, I

HAVEN'T THE HEART TO CRITICISE THEM. I

WILL MERELY SUGGEST THIS ANALOGUE FOR

THEIR CONSIDERATION. IT IS NOT LIKELY

THAT THEY WOULD FEEL THEMSELVES

AWKWARDLY PLACED. BUT THERE YOU ARE.

THESE MEN WOULD FEEL THEMSELVES

AWKWARDLY PLACED. THEN AGAIN, I

RECOGNISE THAT THERE MUST BE SOME,

PERHAPS MANY, MEMBERS WHO DO NOT

HAD BETTER START A CLUB OF MY OWN, THE

THESE AGAIN I'M UP AGAINST IT.

AUDACIOUS HOLD-UP.

A Chinese barber of No. 254, Hollywood Road was walking in Queen's Road at 7 p.m., on the 26th, when near the Western Market he was attacked from behind by two men who held his arms on either side. A third man came up in front, and remarking "I am going to search you," dealt the barber a violent blow over the left eye with an instrument which he held in his hand. The assailant then searched the barber's person and took jewellery and money worth $24. All three men escaped. The barber is now receiving treatment for his injured eye at the G. C. H.

OUR WAR MEMORIAL.

WHAT IT WILL LOOK LIKE.

FRONT VIEW.

SIDE VIEW.

A plain granite pylon, impressive in its simplicity, will comprise Hong Kong's memorial to "The Glorious Dead." To be erected on the finest site, visible from the harbour the local cenotaph will, it is hoped, serve to remind those resident here and the stranger within our gates, of the great sacrifices made during the war. Some of Hongkong's sons are numbered with the glorious dead. The monument will mourn their loss and, at the same time, express triumph at duty done at so great a cost.

Local granite is to be used in the construction of the cenotaph, which will tower to a height of thirty six feet, while its base measurements will be 12ft. 6 ins by 3ft. The pylon will be mounted on three or four steps and on the face will be the inscription "The Glorious Dead" and above a big laurel wreath in bronze. On one side will be draped three flags, the White Ensign, the Red Ensign, and the Union Jack. The national and Naval flags combined with the Blue Ensign will be placed on the other, the staffs in each instance bearing a bronze wreath. Whether these flags will be composed of silk or bunting has not yet been decided. The ground surrounding the monument is to be laid out in keeping with the vicinity but these details are not yet completed nor has the actual position of the column been yet decided upon.

PEKING, August 25.

A BLACKMAILING GANG.

AND A THREATENING LETTER.

A Chinese named Wong Sui-hung was charged before Mr. E. W. Hamilton this morning with having demanded the sum of $100 by menaces.

Mr. R. R. A. Webster appeared for the prosecution, and Mr. Leo d'Almada for the defence.

Mr. Webster asked for a date to be fixed for hearing, and applied for heavy bail.

Mr. d'Almada said he wanted to know the grounds for Mr. Webster's request. He had heard nothing of the facts of the case yet.

Inspostor Appleton said the defendant was one of a gang of blackmailers who pestered actors and actresses of the various Chinese theatres in the Colony. Since the defendant's arrest the actor concerned in the case had received a letter threatening him that he would be shot if the defendant were punished.

The Magistrate fixed the hearing for Friday afternoon next, and allowed bail in the sum of $1,000.

CHILDREN'S CORNER.

VELAINE AND THE ENCHANTED TOAD.

There was once an old woodcutter who lived with his little daughter on the edge of a big forest. They had never had much money but they had always had enough to eat and warm clothes to wear until the old man was taken ill and was not able to go into the forest to cut the trees and carry them away to be sold. He had put by a few shillings but these were soon gone and one morning when he looked in the stocking where he kept his little store it was quite empty.

"We can at least have a fire to keep us warm, Velaine," he said to his small daughter. "And maybe to-morrow I shall be well enough to go and do some work."

"Yes Father, perhaps you will," she answered cheerfully, though she felt that it was impossible. He had such a bad cough and was nearly qualified with rheumatism.

So Velaine went into the forest to pick up some twigs to make a fire. She was wondering whatever she could do to earn some money, for she was not strong enough to cut down wood and as she was thinking deeply she went farther and farther into the forest without noticing where she was going until at last it grew so dark that she looked up in astonishment and found that she was in a grassy glade in the midst of fir trees.

"I have never been here before," said Velaine to herself, surprised, for she had been all over the forest since she was a tiny baby. "What a dark quiet place this is. I must find my way home quickly again or father will think that I am lost."

But this was easier said than done for there seemed to be no way out of the glade.

"How can I have got in?" puzzled Velaine as she pushed against the thick branches on every side and found that she could not possibly get through them. Despairingly she tried one after another until a hoarse "croak!" behind her made her start suddenly.

"Whatever was that?" she cried aloud and then she saw sitting at the base of a tree a huge toad. He had big green eyes like emeralds but they had somehow the saddest expression that Velaine had ever seen.

Now she was not at all fond of foods but she could not help feeling sorry for this poor creature, imprisoned as she was in the gloomy glade.

"Poor thing," he said to it, "Have you been shut here a long time? If I could only find the way out I would show it to you and then we would both go out into the sunlight again."

At once there was a loud crack! The toad disappeared and in his place stood a young and handsome prince.

"Fair maiden," he said, "You have broken the spell. A wicked enchanter changed me into a hideous toad and shut me up in the glade until a mortal should speak a kind word to me, when he would no longer have any power over me. I have been here a whole year and never thought it possible that anyone would find their way in here or, if they did, that they would say anything kind to a wretched toad. How can I repay you? My castle is on the far side of the forest and all that I have is yours."

Then Velaine told him that she did not want anything for herself, only help for her father.

"But how can we get out of this dark glade?" she finished. And then they both saw that the fir trees were gradually disappearing and before long they noticed a path leading

WIRELESS TESTS IN COURT.JUDGE AND THE OPERATOR'S VOICE.

Wireless tests were carried out in Mr. Justice Lawrence's Court in the Chancery Division during the hearing of an action brought by Marconi's Wireless Telegraph Co., Ltd., for the alleged infringement of a patent for the improvement of receivers for use in wireless telegraphy, and a patent relating to vacuum tubes of the Audion type.

By telephone an operator at Marconi House, Strand, was instructed to read a message into the transmitter there. The judge put on a headpiece similar to a telephone receiver and one of the original type of Audion valves was attached.

Mr. Justice Lawrence said he heard the message and it was most uninteresting. It was about tourists and motor-cars and he had already read it.

Mr. J. Hunter Gray, K.C., who appeared for the Marconi Company, then created electrical disturbances of the air by placing a vulcanite rod, which he had rubbed with a piece of silk close to the valve, and his lordship stated that the effect was to shut the voice off altogether.

One of the valves which was alleged to be an infringement of the Marconi Company's invention was then substituted and counsel asked the judge to notice how much more distinct the voice was. Then the vulcanite rod was again applied, and his lordship said at first that he did not notice any change except that the operator was a little violent in shouting "Hello, hello!" (Laughter.)

through the trees down which they hastened and in a short time were at the woodcutter's hut. The prince told the old man that he would send a carriage as soon as possible to fetch him and then hurried on to his castle where he was received with great joy by his faithful servants. He then sent for the woodcutter and his daughter and with good food and careful attention the old man soon recovered and when, after a time, the prince married the gentle and beautiful Velaine there was great rejoicing.

THE WINGED ART.

LORD ROSEBERRY ON INDISPENSABILITY OF SHORTHAND.

At a Press Association dinner over which he presided a few years ago, Lord Rosebery said:—

"I believe that one hundred years ago the world would have got on tolerably well without shorthand; but at this moment, suppose we can fancy, by any autocratic and super-natural power, the suspension of shorthand throughout the world for even a week, I want to know how the universe would get on under circumstances of that kind. My imagination cannot grasp the idea. There is a great economy in public offices which might be looked after as much, at least, as the economy of money, and that is the economy of time, and as long as we neglect and pass by the obvious economy of time that is to be effected by the greatly increased use of shorthand in our public offices, I say we are flagrantly neglecting our duty to our country in this respect."

"The telegram, the telephone, the post-card are nothing but the signals of distress of an overstrained civilization. I believe our first economy must lie in the direction of a much greater employment of shorthand.... In the next place, in these days of rigid and anxious competition in economical matters, we must make it understood to all our growing lads that an almost indispensable condition of a commercial education is a knowledge of shorthand; and in the third place, we must make it understood that to all those who aspire to secretarial or responsible posts, a knowledge of shorthand is, at least, equally indispensable. In the days when women are loudly and justly calling for increased and enlarged employment, shorthand offers them a pursuit which they are eminently qualified to excel in."

"I hope with all my heart that shorthand will penetrate every cranny and crvice of our civilized life.... I pay homage to your litho and noble art, which has added largely to the power and economy of the present day, and is likely to add to them indefinitely in the future: and I pay homage to it further for this reason, that in the past it has recorded the speeches of a Cicero and a Caesar, and I think in the coming days, historians will not be ungrateful to it for having recorded the speeches of a Gladstone, a Disraeli, and a Bright. The late Lord Heseltine, himself a writer of shorthand, once took occasion to say that shorthand had become a necessity to a majority of those who desired to be employed in commercial life or public offices. It would be impossible to estimate the increased capacity it conferred upon those who were working with their intellects."

Humanly speaking St. Ambrose, Bishop of Milan, was responsible for his full surrender to the Catholic Faith and on Holy Saturday 387 he was baptised. From then onwards, he studied theology and devoted himself to fasting, prayer and good works. Later he was ordained Bishop of Hippo to this city, in 430 the Vandals laid siege and in the third month St. Augustine died of a violent fever.

His writings are numerous, the best known being his "Confessions" and "On the City of God." He must not be confused with St. Augustine first Bishop of Canterbury who is commemorated on May 26th.

The announcement at Cambridge of the impending re-signation of Dr. Stanton, Regius Professor of Divinity, makes it natural to comment on the very great services which he has rendered to the Church and to theology. Always a scholar in the old fashioned Cambridge sense, he has added to his scholarship a profound and massive knowledge of Christian Theology on its philosophic side. And to this he has added a keen practical concern for the life and work of the Church. For many years, while Ely Professor, he was a member of the Lower House of Convocation, and as Chairman of the Cambridge Committee of the Delhi Mission and one of the leaders in the Christian Society Movement he has carried on the part played by Dr. Westcott in an earlier generation. At the same time he found leisure to act as chairman of committees, and as chaplain, to the Cambridge Refuge, and to prove himself, by counsel and benefaction, a friend of all good causes. Truly a devout and learned priest, whose place at the head of the Divinity Faculty it will hard to fill.

He has just published the concluding volume of his great work on the Gospels as Historical Documents, and it may be hoped that the comparative leisure of his retirement will bear further fruit.

CHURCH NOTES.

THE ELEVENTH SUNDAY
AFTER TRINITY.

The customary vote of thanks to preachers and incumbents having been moved from the chair, the annual report was formally received. It summarises an unusually large number of important matters which have come before the Union in the last twelve months, notably the defence of Christian marriage, the ministry of women, the prospect of reunion with the East, and the issues raised at the Girton Conference of Modern Churchmen. During the year also the reorganization of the Union to meet the emergencies of the National Assembly elections has been carried forward. For the twelve months ending May 31st last 2,238 members and associates joined the Union, of whom 158 were in Holy Orders. The report also records the election of the Archbishop of the West Indies, the Bishop of Bloemfontein, the Bishop of Madagascar, the Bishop of Guiana, the Right Reverend Doctors Gore and Mounsey, and the Assistant Bishop of Honduras as episcopal vice presidents.

The Anglo-Catholic Congresses at Birmingham, Leeds, and Bristol seem to have been highly successful by the reports that reach us. At Leeds the whole thing seems to have been particularly inspiring and the city seems to have been brought to realise that a great meeting of the Church was taking place in its midst.

The opening Eucharist and the street procession that followed it seem to have caused a great impression. Directly after the service, Bishop S. M. Taylor, Canon of Windsor, arrived with his two deacons of honour and the straight from the Church the long procession, headed by a crucifix, thurifer and processional lights, set off for the Town Hall. First came the priests in surplices, four abreast, then another crucifix and lights, and the four Bishops in their cope and mitres, each attended by two deacons, then another crucifix and lights, and the Religions in their habits, and then the congregation, some 2000 men and women. It was an astonishing sight in an English city, and against the smoky buildings of Leeds, the brilliance of the cope and mitre and the dalmatic and the white of the surplices showed up with great effect. The procession must have reached for half a mile, and it took some twenty minutes to half an hour to reach the Town Hall. And as it passed down the wide streets respectful crowds watched and men took off their hats and here and there a policeman saluted as the crucifixes and the bishops passed. When the last of the lay-folks had reached the Town Hall, the Bishop of Carlisle recited prayers for the blessing of God the Holy Ghost on the Congress, and the great assembly dispersed for the time.
